GEORGE SAVOURY

George utilizes his knowledge and experience in social work, child welfare and executive leadership to do program and policy reviews as well training in such areas as promoting a respectful workplace and resolving workplace conflict. His reviews focus on whether the organization has the resources (staffing, training, organizational structure, effective programs and policies, etc.) to enable leaders and employees to perform successfully and how these issues should be addressed.

Prior to starting Savoury Consulting Ltd., in 2013, George worked in the field of social services with the governments of Newfoundland and Labrador and Nova Scotia. He started his career as a social worker and held positions such as Supervisor, District Manager, Regional Administrator, Director of Child Welfare and Assistant Deputy Minister with the Province of Newfoundland and Labrador. Prior to forming Savoury Consulting Ltd. in February 2013, he was Executive Director of Family and Community Supports with the Province of Nova Scotia. He also held positions with the Nova Scotia government as Consultant, Director of Child Welfare and Director of Policy and Evaluation.

His projects have included program and policy reviews, child welfare advisor, strategic plan development and training in the following areas: strategic planning, board governance, respectful communication, respectful workplace-strategies for a healthy workplace, policy development, performance management, social media and resolving workplace conflict. A specialty of Savoury Consulting Ltd is program and policy reviews in child welfare.
